FOREWORD

To assist those using this book, the compiler gives the following helpful information.

EARLY SETTLEMENTS.

Squatters are known to have lived in what is now Snyder County, Pennsylvania, as early as 1754, and land grants were made early as 1755, for areas in what is now the southern part of the county. Officially, most of the county was now thrown open to settlers until 1769, and between that date and the beginning of the Revolution some four hundred families had moved to the frontier from the eastern and southern counties.

COUNTY FORMATIONS.

The southern part of Snyder County belonged to Cumberland County prior to 1772, the northern part was claimed by Berks County. In 1772, a new county, Northumberland, was formed, and the section now known as Snyder County, then included all of Penn and part of Buffalo Townships of Northumberland County. In 1789, the western part of Penn Township became ^{Beaver} township, and in 1796, the southern part of same became Mahantango Township. This township existed until 1820, when it was broken up to form Perry, Chapman, and Washington Townships, and the name Mahantango disappeared from the township lists. The southern part of Buffalo Township then became part of Penn. New Townships were formed from time to time from parts of Penn, Beaver, Center, Perry etc. In 1813, what is now Snyder County became part of the newly formed county of Union. In 1855, the southern part of Union County became Snyder County.

THE COUNTY NAME.

The County was named for Hon Simon Snyder, the third governor of Pennsylvania, and the only man who ever served three terms in that office. During the Revolution Snyder became a resident of Selinsgrove, the oldest and largest town in the county, and he continued to live there until his death in 1819. He served in the State Legislature as a Representative, then Governor, and after that in the Senate. He is buried in Selinsgrove and the State marked his resting place with a large monument.

COUNTY SEATS.

When this area was part of Cumberland County, Carlisle was the county seat. When it became part of Northumberland County, the newly formed town of Sunbury, was the county seat. When it became part of Union County, New Berlin was the seat. The present seat of Union County is at Lewisburg, and of Snyder County, at Middleburg, Pa.

THE REVOLUTION

This was frontier during the Revolution and practically every male between 16 and 60, served in the rangers, militia, or Continental forces. This book is exceedingly valuable, because most of the early decedents mentioned in it served in the war.

The compiler has prepared numerous genealogies of the early families, also THE SNYDER COUNTY PIONEERS, a book giving biographical sketches of the heads of more than eight hundred families who lived in the section before 1800. The compiler will be glad to assist any who cannot find all they need in any of his works.
